DETAILED ACTION

Application Status

Claims 57-64, 70-72, 74-84 and 86 of the instant application are pending. Upon reconsideration, the previous restriction requirement, mailed 11/17/2008, is hereby vacated. It is noted that in the previous restriction/election of species requirement, Applicant elected, without traverse, wherein the disclosed condition or disease is hypertriglyceridemia. Applicant is requested to confirm the election in the response to the instant restriction/election of species requirement.

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 57-64, 70-72, 74-80 and 86, drawn to a method for treatment or prevention of conditions or diseases associated with dysfunction of vascular endothelium, oxidative stress and/or insufficient production of endothelial PGI₂.

Group II, claim(s) 81-84, drawn to a method for enhancing prostacyclin levels in mammals.

The inventions listed as Groups I and II do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

Group II involves a method for enhancing prostacyclin levels in mammals. The methodological steps and modes of operation, with regard to novelty, are not present in Group I; therefore, the special technical feature is not shared by the Groups. For instance, an increase in triglyceride concentration, i.e., hypertriglyceridemia, would not necessarily encompass a change in the prostacyclin levels.

This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows: conditions or diseases associated with dysfunction of vascular endothelium, oxidative stress and/or insufficient production of endothelial PGI₂.

As mentioned supra, it is noted that in the aforementioned restriction/election of species requirement, Applicant elected wherein the disclosed condition or disease is hypertriglyceridemia. Applicant is requested to confirm the election in the response to the instant restriction/election of species requirement.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

A disclosed condition or disease – 57-64, 70-72, 74-80 and 86.

The following claim(s) are generic: 57-64, 70-72, 74-84 and 86.

The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

An international application should relate to only one invention or, if there is more than one invention, the inclusion of those inventions in one international application is only permitted if all inventions are so linked as to form a single general inventive concept (PCT Rule 13.1). With respect to the species, unity of invention exists only when there is a technical relationship among the claimed inventions involving one or more of the same or corresponding special technical features. The expression “special technical features” shall mean those technical features that define a contribution which each of the claimed inventions, considered as a whole, makes over the prior art.

The claims herein lack unity of invention under PCT Rule 13.1 and 13.2 because the instant invention does not set forth a technical relationship among the claimed inventions. For instance, the instant invention lacks unity in that the conditions or diseases, set forth in instant claim 58 (e.g., hypercholesterolemia; hypertriglyceridemia), do not share a technical relationship, such as a common core structure or biological, physical, or chemical properties. Therefore, with diseases, such as those claimed in instant claim 58, there is not a technical relationship among the claimed inventions.

Applicant is advised that to be complete, the reply to this requirement must include (i) an election of a species and invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

Conclusion

Claims 57-64, 70-72, 74-84 and 86 are subject to a restriction/election of species requirement.
